THE FUTURE OF CHESTNUTS

For Pacific Coast planters the Chestnut offers many advantages, in that there is an excellent market waiting--now only supplied by foreign importation, in amount exceeding 25,000,000 pounds annually. What few are grown here have brought an average price around twenty cents per pound wholesale, and require no bleaching at harvest.

The trees thrive in all elevations under 4000 feet, and have no frost hazard, as the Chestnut blooms in late May or June. The trees here have no pests or disease, and require no spraying, and little pruning. They begin bearing at three to four years and have been known to average over an acreage, 200 pounds per tree at eight years from planting, and the trees bear regular crops for hundreds of years, offering an exceptional income.

Enough Orchards are in bearing to demonstrate the good judgment in planting, but the total acreage is small, and there is no danger of over production.

While the European nut is largely used by the consumers as yet, because of size, the new Hybrid crosses with the American, promise to be the best planting. They carry the sweetness of the American nut with the size of the Italian.

The United States Department of Agriculture says, that nuts from the Hybrid trees developed in the Riehl Orchard in Illinois, have always been in heavy demand at prices from thirty-five to forty cents a pound wholesale.

For the first time, we are able to supply grafted stock of this celebrated Hybrid Chestnut, and we shall be glad to supply planters with stock, and with all information available.

In addition, we can supply grafted trees of the best selection of the Italian and American varieties, as well as Seedling trees.

The supply of trees of the best grafted varieties is limited, and Orchardists interested, should place their orders now to insure getting the best stock.
